Pause at Federal Way's 9/11 Memorial to contemplate and to honor the victims and first responders who lost their lives on that fateful day in 2001. The Memorial is one of very few 9/11 memorials to have artifacts from all three September 11th crash sites.

A black granite wall is inscribed with the names of the 2,977 people who lost their lives in the attack, including 343 firefighters and 60 police officers.

Features

- Artifacts from all three attack locations
 - 150-pound piece of limestone that was part of the Pentagon
 - 12-foot, 1,216, pound steel beam from the wreckage of the World Trade Center
 - Stone excavated from the Shanksville, Pennsylvania Flight 93 plane crash site
- A Callery pear tree, (the same variety as the "Survivor Tree" in New York). The Survivor Tree is the only plant to have lived through the attack of the Trade Center at ground zero.

Accessibility

- ADA/Handicapped
- Onsite parking
- Public transit via Metro buses 181, 187 and 197. All stop .1 miles away.

Hours

Open 24/7/365

If Fire Department staff is available during normal work hours, visitors may come into the fire house to view additional 9/11 items in the station lobby.

Nestled amidst towering conifers, Pacific Bonsai Museum connects people to nature through the living art of bonsai. The Museum boasts the most diverse collection of bonsai in the United States. Sixty of the museum's 150 bonsai collection are on rotating display in a grand outdoor setting with the elegance of a fine art museum.

The collection was established in 1989 by the Weyerhaeuser Company to celebrate the Washington State Centennial and honor its trading partners in the Pacific Rim nations of Canada, China, Japan, Korea, Taiwan and the United States. In 2013, the collection was gifted to a new non-profit organization known as the Pacific Bonsai Museum. The Museum welcomes more than 30,000 visitors a year from around the world.

Open year-round, the Weyerhaeuser King County Aquatic Center is a legacy venue of the 1990 Seattle Goodwill Games. This 2,500-seat facility maintains one of the most active competition schedules in the country, hosting more than 50 events and 350,000 visitors annually. It has been the site of Olympic Trials, top national and international competitions, and the Pacific Northwest's premiere events. A recent economic study conducted for King County measured the annual financial impact of these events on the region in excess of $7.5 million.

In addition to the swimming and diving events, the center is open to the public for lap swims, family swims, swimming lessons, and more. The recreational pool is available to rent for private events. Contact the pool office for more details on pricing and reservations.

The Center also has a banquet hall and smaller rooms at pool level. Space for larger groups, such as weddings, parties and company events is available above pool level.

Features

- Olympic-sized competition and training natatorium, accommodating swimming, diving, water polo and synchronized swimming (open to public)
- 25-yd x 15-yd recreational pool with pirate cove features and theme (available for private events)

Restore your soul in this peaceful, verdant retreat. The three acres of PowellsWood are nestled against another thirty-five acres of native successional forest. A series of hedges help define several distinct garden rooms graced with more than a thousand varieties of trees, shrubs and perennials.

Walking paths, a meandering stream and pond blend gently into the forest and ravines of Redondo's historic upper Cold Creek watershed. A conservatory-style Garden Room offers shelter when the elements threaten.

Tours are self-guided; a docent may be available by reservation in spring and summer. Field trips for school groups, tailored to align with grade-appropriate science standards, are available.

West Hylebos Wetlands Park Barker & Denny Cabins

411 S. 348th Street
Federal Way, WA 98003

Federal Way, Washington

www.visitfw.org

Discover 120 acres of diverse Pacific Northwest wetlands via a large public trail network that guides you through unique old growth forest and one of the last remaining bogs in South King County. Step back in time as you view restored historic buildings.

The Barker Cabin was built by John Barker in 1883 on land near present-day 320th Street and Pacific Highway and served as a residence for many years. It was moved in the mid-1950s and again in 1993 to the current location.

The Denny Cabin was originally built in 1889 on Seattle's Queen Anne Hill as a real estate office and has been used as a school, church and tavern. In the mid-1960s the cabin was moved to its first Federal Way location. In 1992 the cabin was moved to its present site.

Both cabins have been painstakingly restored by the Historical Society of Federal Way with help from the city, state and other organizations.

Federal Way is centrally located in the Seattle metropolitan area along the Puget Sound Inlet and shadowed by majestic Mount Rainier. While Federal Way is a community of 100,000 nearly one million tourists experience it annually.

This is because Federal Way is home to the largest theme park in Washington: Wild Wave Theme and Water Park. It is also home to the King County Aquatic Center, one of the nation's premier facilities where you can enjoy the same pool that Olympic swimmers and divers use to train and compete. Visitors can also take in a top performance at the Performing Arts and Event Center or local community theater at the Centerstage. Federal Way is also home to lush gardens from the nationally renowned Pacific Bonsai Museum to the global collection of the Rhododendron Species Botanical Garden to the seasonal garden of PowellsWood.

Enjoy the breath taking views of the Olympic Mountain range while strolling along the waterfront of the Puget Sound. Skimboard on the sandy beaches at Dash Point State Park. Take in the scents from the fir trees combined with the beauty of the native ornamentals that make Federal Way uniquely magnificent.

So whether you are here on businesses, leisure or bringing the family to a Seahawks, Sounders or Mariners game, you will find everything you are looking for, including being easy on the pocketbook. Visit Federal Way, where we are "Centered on Visitor Opportunity."
